General Account Terms

A. Accounts

1. Deposit Account

Your Account with us is a custodial account. That means legal title to the precious metals that are held in your Account remains with you. Unless otherwise agreed, your deposits will be kept fully segregated and you will be responsible for account fees on that basis.

2. Account Types

You acknowledge that the type of account you select may determine how property passes on your death and that your will may not control the disposition of assets held in the Account. For more information on account types see the account application and our website.

Our rights and liabilities for multi-party accounts (accounts with more than one designated owner) are governed by the Texas Estates Code, as amended from time to time.

3. Account Changes

Each Account Holder or person authorized to sign on the Account is required to notify us in writing if any Account Holder or other person authorized to sign on the Account dies or is declared incompetent by a court. You must promptly notify us of any change in your address or name.

4. Account Closure/Termination

You agree that either of us may close your Account and terminate this agreement at any time, for any reason, with or without cause. If we close your Account, we may, but are not obligated to, provide advance written notice of our intention to do so. You may close any of your Accounts by notifying us in writing.

We may consider your Account closed if there are no Assets on deposit in your Account for a period of ninety (90) days. We may, but are not obligated to, contact you prior to closing your Account to verify whether you would like to keep the Account open. You may avoid involuntary closure of your Account by requesting us to suspend your Account for a period of up to 12 months. During the requested suspension period, we will not assess storage fees on your Account.

For security reasons, we may require you to close your Account and to open a new account.

The termination of this Agreement and closing of an Account will not release you from any fees or other obligations incurred prior to the date upon which the Account is closed or any fees assessed by us in the process of closing an Account. We will not be liable to you for any damages you suffer as a result of your Account being closed.

B. Fees and Charges

1. Applicable Fees

You agree to pay us the fees and charges as provided by the Fee Schedule applicable to your Account and for other services we perform.

2. Fee Changes

We reserve the right to change the fees that are applicable to your Account and any services provided by us. Any such fee change will take effect no less than thirty (30) calendar days after we provide you with notice of a change in fees. We can provide such notice to you by mail, electronically by email, or via an account message on our website. We may also provide notice by publishing a fee change on our website.

3. Payment Due Date

We will send you an invoice for storage fees on at least a quarterly basis. Your quarterly invoice will reflect the fees for services provided in the immediately preceding calendar quarter. Fees and charges are due and payable within thirty (30) days of the date shown on the invoice. If you do not make a payment within that time, we may charge you a late fee.

You may make a payment by credit card or by automated clearinghouse (ACH) payment and you agree to comply with any legal requirements and our applicable payment requirements. If you choose to make a payment by credit card, you understand that we may charge you a convenience fee and you agree to that fee.

C. Deposit Rules

1. Deposits

Before you can make a deposit of precious metals into your Account, you must contact us prior to making the deposit by submitting a deposit request on our website. You may also contact us by telephone during normal business hours for assistance in completing a deposit request.

You are responsible for ensuring that your deposit request is accurately completed. Your deposit request should fully describe your deposit by specifying the metal type, quantity, form, weight in troy ounces pure, and/or any other characteristic to allow us to verify your deposit.

We may rely on the account number on any deposit request or similar record we receive, even if that account number is associated with a name that is different from the name you have provided. It is not our responsibility to detect any inconsistency between the account number you provide and the name on your Account.

If you make a deposit directly with us, we will provide you with an online notification that your deposit was received. You may also visit texasbulliondepository.gov to view your Account or call us to confirm that we have received your deposit.

We are not responsible for any loss in transit of any deposit you send to us. You are encouraged to purchase insurance for any shipment of precious metals you send to us for deposit.

If you make a deposit with us through an authorized depository agent, you will be provided with a receipt, but the items on your deposit receipt are based entirely on the deposit request you complete. We may confirm that the items on your deposit request are as described before accepting the deposit.

2. Assets with Declared Value

When making a deposit, you may declare an Asset as having a higher value than the base metal content value. If you declare a higher value for an Asset, we may rely on and use your Declared Value for calculating your storage fees. If you do not declare a higher value for any Asset deposited with us, we may assume that the value of the Asset is limited to its metal content value as determined by us and you will not be able to later claim a higher value in the event of loss or damage.

3. Limitations on Deposits

The Depository reserves the right to restrict or limit the types, forms and sources of precious metals that may be deposited with the depository. Before submitting a deposit of precious metals, you are responsible for ensuring that the bullion or specie you are seeking to deposit with the depository is on our approved list of acceptable deposits. You may visit texasbulliondepository.gov to view the current list of metals and forms that the depository is accepting for deposit.

4. Testing and Inspection

You authorize us to test and verify the precious metals you deposit with us at the time of deposit. We may, but are not obligated to, test the precious metals deposited with us. If we test a deposit, we may use one or more commercially reasonable methods to confirm that the weight, size, density, and/or metal composition are consistent with your deposit request. Acceptance of a deposit after testing does not constitute a guarantee by us that the precious metals are as described on your deposit request.

If we test a deposit, we will use commercially reasonable methods to the extent that we can do so without damaging the Product. However, we cannot guarantee that our testing services will not reduce the value of the Product and will not be liable to you for any damage or loss in value you incur as a result of testing.

If we test a Product and it does not conform to the weight, size, documentation, density, metal composition or other standards applicable to the Product being tested, our only obligation to you is to notify you of any discrepancies.

5. Our Right to Refuse Deposits

We may refuse a deposit, or part of a deposit, at any time. We may also refuse a deposit after initially accepting it. We will not be liable to you for refusing a deposit and you will be responsible for the cost of returning the deposit to you.

6. When You Can Withdraw Precious Metals You've Deposited

Generally, you may withdraw precious metals you've deposited the next Business Day after the day the depository receives and accepts your deposit. But, in some cases you may not. Please see Asset Availability Policy.

D. Withdrawal Rules

1. Withdrawals

You may request a withdrawal of precious metals from your Account by submitting a withdrawal request on our website. You may also contact us by telephone during normal business hours for assistance in completing a withdrawal request. If you contact us by phone for assistance, we will send you a completed form for signature.

We will only process withdrawal requests in a quantity of precious metals as are available in your Account. If a withdrawal request would result in your Account being overdrawn, if honored, we will be unable to process the request and you will nevertheless be obligated to pay us the withdrawal fee.

Upon receipt of any withdrawal request, we may contact you to confirm that you have authorized the withdrawal before processing the withdrawal request. If we are unable to confirm that you authorized the withdrawal, the request will not be processed. We also reserve the right to reject instructions that are inconsistent with the terms of this Agreement or applicable law.

You are responsible for ensuring that your withdrawal request is accurately completed. Your withdrawal request should fully describe the Assets for which you are requesting withdrawal by specifying the metal type, quantity, form, weight in troy ounces pure, and/or any other characteristic to allow us to identify the Assets.

Your withdrawal request must also specify the verified address to which the withdrawn Assets are to be delivered. You are responsible for paying the fees and costs associated with a withdrawal of precious metals from the Depository. The current fees and costs are set out in our Fee Schedule and are also posted on our website. We reserve the right to require payment of withdrawal costs prior to processing a withdrawal if, as a result of the withdrawal, your Account Balance drops below the amount of the associated withdrawal fees and costs.

We will use our best efforts to ship your withdrawals in accordance with your instructions within five (5) Business Days of your requested date of withdrawal. We will ship your withdrawal by common carrier and will be responsible for insuring any such shipment. If you wish to make alternative arrangements, you will be responsible for the shipping and other costs, including insurance, associated with the return of your Assets.

If you wish to pick up the withdrawn Assets at our facility, you must contact us to arrange an appointment to do so and we may require additional documentation to verify your identity before we release the Assets to you. We reserve the right to designate an alternative pick-up location.

2. Withdrawal Discrepancies

You are responsible for notifying us of any discrepancies related to your withdrawal within ten (10) Business Days of the date you received the withdrawal. If you do not give us written notice of the discrepancy or error, we are not required to reimburse you for any claimed loss, and you cannot bring any legal claim against us in any way related to the discrepancy or errors.

If you properly provide notice of any discrepancy, the Parties shall endeavor to determine the cause of the discrepancy and resolve the dispute. You agree that for a period of ninety (90) days after providing us notice of a discrepancy you will not bring an action, suit, or other legal proceeding against us to allow us an opportunity to investigate the discrepancy and attempt to resolve the dispute with you. We will provide you with a written response within three (3) Business Days after completing our investigation.

E. Transfers of Depository Account Balances

You may initiate a transfer of precious metals up to the Available Balance in your Account to another person by requesting a balance transfer on our website. You may also contact us by telephone during normal business hours for assistance in completing a balance transfer request. If you contact us by phone for assistance, the completed form will be sent to you for signature. If a balance transfer request would result in your Account being overdrawn, we will be unable to process the request and you will nevertheless be obligated to pay us the transfer fee. Upon receipt of a balance transfer request, we may contact you to confirm that you authorized the transfer before processing the request. If we are unable to confirm that you authorized the transfer, the request will not be processed.

If you request a balance transfer to a person who is not a depository account holder, we may refuse to honor the transfer request if doing so violates any applicable law or depository policy and we will not be responsible for any loss or damages whatsoever that you may incur as a result of our refusal.

You are responsible for ensuring that your balance transfer request is accurately completed. Your transfer request should fully describe the Assets for which you are requesting transfer by specifying the metal type, quantity, form, weight in troy ounces pure, and/or any other characteristic to allow us to identify the Assets you are requesting to be withdrawn.

Your request should also fully identify the person to whom you are transferring the precious metals, including to the extent known, the person's depository account number, address, and other identifying information to allow the depository to confirm the identity of the transferee. If we are unable to confirm the identity of a transferee, we may contact you for additional information or refuse to honor the transfer request. If we refuse to honor a transfer request for this reason, we will not be responsible for any loss or damages whatsoever that you may incur as a result of our refusal.

F. Authorized Users

Corporate and other business customers must designate one person as the administrator of your Account at the time the Account is opened, but additional Authorized Users may be designated using our online system. You must inform us if there is a change in the designated administrator to give access to your account to other persons and authorize them to complete transactions for your account. Authorized Users do not have an ownership interest in your account; however, you are responsible for managing their permissions and, if a person is authorized to complete transactions for your account, you agree that you are solely responsible for any activity initiated by that person. You may change, limit, or revoke the permissions of an Authorized User at any time by logging onto your account and making the changes to your account. You agree that we may rely on the permissions set for your account with respect to any Authorized User, and that no change to those permissions will be effective unless you log in to your account and make a change.

G. Power of Attorney

You may designate a person as your agent or attorney-in-fact with power to act for you over your Account. We may accept any power of attorney form that is legally binding within the State of Texas, but to be effective, the power of attorney form must be notarized.

You agree that we may rely on your Power of Attorney and may act on the instructions we receive from your agent under such form. You agree to indemnify and reimburse us for all claims, costs, losses and damages that we incur in accepting and acting on any Power of Attorney form we believe you executed.

We reserve the right to refuse to honor any Power of Attorney you grant that is presented to us with or without cause and at no liability to us. We also reserve the right to require additional information, documentation, or actions from you that are sufficient, in our sole discretion, to satisfy any questions or concerns we may have regarding a Power of Attorney submitted to us.

We may also restrict the types or sizes of transactions we permit an agent to conduct. We may require a separate form for each agent and each Account for which you want to grant a Power of Attorney.

Unless otherwise agreed by us in writing, an agent cannot appoint another agent, including, but not limited to an Authorized User.

H. Pledge of Account to Third Parties

You may pledge your rights in and to your Account to a third party as collateral but to be effective any such pledge must be made using our Depository Account Pledge Form.

No pledge will be valid or binding on us, and we will not be considered to have knowledge of it, until we consent and acknowledge the pledge in writing. Any permitted pledge is subject to and superseded by our setoff rights and remains subject to any other right we have under the Agreement and applicable state and federal law.

Unless we acknowledge the pledge in writing, we may treat you as the owner of the Account for all purposes.

If you pledge your Account as collateral to a third party, you are still responsible for the fees associated with the Account.

I. Continuing Security Interest

By law, we have a continuing lien and security interest in and to your Account to secure the payment of any of your obligations to us under this Agreement, including fees and other charges. If you default, we may, without notice to you, transfer or liquidate all or part of the balance of your Account as necessary to pay or satisfy your obligation to us. If we liquidate any portion of your Account to pay or satisfy your obligations to us, we will refund to you the proceeds of the sale, less any costs or expenses related to the sale and the amounts you owe us. We may also suspend withdrawal privileges on your Account until you pay or satisfy your obligation to us.

If we exercise our rights under this section, you may be liable to us for additional applicable fees.

J. Right of Setoff

Subject to applicable law, we may exercise any right of setoff that we are entitled to exercise under common law, under this Agreement and under statute to recover amounts you owe us from any Accounts you maintain with us or with our affiliates before we pay any amounts we may owe you. As permitted by applicable law, we may exercise our right of setoff for any liability or debt of any of you, whether the Account is owned jointly or individually; whether the liability or debt is direct or contingent and whether now or hereafter existing; and whether the liability or debt arises from overdrafts, endorsements, guarantees, attachments, garnishments, levies, attorneys' fees, or other obligations. If you are a sole proprietor, we may charge any of your personal or business Accounts. If you are a business partnership, we may also charge the personal Accounts of any general partner. If the Account is a joint or multiple-party Account, each joint or multiple-party Account Holder authorizes us to exercise our right of setoff against any and all Accounts of each Account Holder. We may use funds held in joint or multiple-party Accounts to repay the debts on which any one of you is liable, whether jointly with another or individually. We may charge any such debt against your Account at any time, without regard to the origin of deposits to the Account or beneficial ownership of the funds.

K. Attorney's Fees

If you do not pay any amount you owe to us, including fees and other charges, you will be liable for our reasonable attorney's fees necessary to collect what you owe.

L. Asset Availability Policy

Our policy is to make Assets deposited into your Account available to you on the first Business Day after we receive your deposit at our storage facility. However, longer delays may apply in certain circumstances or as required to comply with federal or state law. Upon request, we will provide you with an estimate of when the Assets will be made available to you.

If you receive a transfer of precious metals from another depository account holder, we will transfer the precious metals to your segregated storage account and adjust your Account Balance accordingly. Precious metals transferred from another depository account holder are subject to a settlement period of up to ten (10) Business Days and may not be sold, withdrawn or otherwise transferred during the settlement period unless approved by us. If you need access to the transferred Assets right away, you should ask us when the Assets will be available.

M. Account Statements/Error Resolution Procedures

We will provide you with a monthly account statement that summarizes the Account activity as of the last day of the previous calendar month. You are responsible for promptly examining each account statement to ensure its accuracy and for reporting any discrepancies to us.

The Account Balance contained in your account statement reflects the number of ounces of each metal type multiplied by the applicable Official Exchange Rate plus an adjustment, if any, for items with a higher declared value. The Account Balance is not based upon our independent valuation and is not intended as a definitive statement or guarantee as to the value of the Assets contained in your Account. This balance is provided for convenience only and solely for the purpose of calculating applicable storage fees. In providing this balance, we are not exercising discretion in any capacity, nor acting as a fiduciary or giving advice with respect to the value of the Assets. Our role is limited to simply reporting the valuation of the assets as directed by you or your agent and is based on information supplied by independent public sources.

The monthly account statement will be considered correct for all purposes, and we will not be liable for any discrepancy, unless you notify us in writing of the discrepancy or error within thirty (30) days of the date we sent you the first account statement on which the problem or error appeared. If you do not give us written notice of the discrepancy or error within this time period, we are not required to reimburse you for any claimed loss, and you waive your right to and cannot bring any legal claim against us in any way related to the discrepancy or errors.

If you properly provide notice of any discrepancy, the Parties shall endeavor to determine the cause of the discrepancy and resolve the dispute. You agree that for a period of ninety (90) days after providing us written notice of a discrepancy you will not bring an action, suit, or other legal proceeding against us to allow us an opportunity to investigate the discrepancy and attempt to resolve the dispute with you. We will tell you the results within three (3) Business Days after completing our investigation. If we decide there was no error, we will send you a written explanation.

Please note that Texas law provides that any action, suit, or legal proceeding arising from a denial of deposit liability must be brought within one year of the date we gave notice to you of the denial of liability. Provision of a periodic account statement constitutes notice of denial of liability for any transaction that is not reflected on the account statement.

N. Loss or Damage

Our liability is limited to loss or damage that occurs to your Assets while in our physical possession. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, in the event of loss or damage to your Assets while they are in our possession, we may, at our sole option, replace your precious metals with precious metals in the same or similar form or may reimburse you for the value of the precious metals at the time of loss or damage occurred. In any event, our liability to you for loss or damage to your Assets is limited to the metal content value unless you declared a higher value for the lost or damaged items at the time of deposit. If you declared a higher value at or after the time of deposit, our liability to you is limited to the lower of actual value or your declared value.

Our liability for loss or damage does not include normal wear and tear from handling or storing your Assets, including, but not limited to any tarnishing or other chemical reactions that may occur as a result of storing your Assets.

O. Notices

Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, all notices required under this agreement shall be in writing. If you have provided us with an email address, you agree that we may provide any required notice to you electronically by email to that address. We may also provide you notice by other electronic means including via an online account notification on the Depository website. Only one notice will be given in the case of joint account owners and notice to any Account Holder is deemed notice to all Account Holders.

All notices from us will be effective when we have mailed them to the current address (whether physical address or email address) we have for you in our records. You may update your contact information on our website, but any notice sent to you within fifteen (15) Business Days of any such change shall be effective even if we sent the notice to your previous address.

All notices to us will be effective when received. You may contact us or provide any required written notice to us at the following address:

P. Changes to Agreement

We may change the terms of this agreement or your Account, including without limitation all rates, fees, and charges, to the extent permitted by law. We may also update our Privacy Policy at any time, and if we do, we will update the link in our Privacy Policy on our website.

For changes related to the Fee Schedule, please refer to the Fee Schedule section of this Agreement.

For all other changes, we will endeavor to provide you reasonable notice in writing or by any other method permitted by law, including notice of our effective date. By maintaining your Account after the effective date of any change for which we have provided you notice, you agree to the change.

You agree that we may also change or terminate this agreement without notice to comply with any applicable laws.

Q. Confidentiality

You authorize us to disclose information to third parties, our affiliates and agents, or other authorized persons about you and your Account(s):

- When it is necessary to complete a transaction requested by you;
- If you give us written permission;
- In order to comply with government agency or court orders, or other applicable law; and
- In accordance with our Privacy Policy.

R. Miscellaneous Provisions

1. Security and Passwords

As part of our services, we employ various authentication technologies. In addition to unique User IDs and a personal password ("Password"), you may be required to provide additional information we may require from time-to-time in conjunction with any additional authentication procedures we may employ ("Additional Authentication Information" or "AAI"). Such AAI shall be used in conjunction with various authentication procedures that the Depository may employ, including but not limited to, security questions and responses and/or other hardware and software-based security and authentication programs and procedures. Upon selection, the User ID, Password and AAI become the method for authenticating transactions. You understand you are solely responsible for safeguarding your User ID, Password and AAI.

You understand that we will rely on access via use of your User ID, Password and AAI as confirmation that you have authorized all activity conducted following such authenticated access. If you authorize or permit another person to use your Account, either by granting permissions as an Authorized User or by giving them your User ID, Password or AAI, you are responsible for all activity the person initiates via our online system.

You understand and agree to notify us immediately if your or an Authorized User's User ID, Password or AAI have been lost, stolen or compromised.

2. Electronic Platforms

You acknowledge that we do not guarantee the continued availability of our electronic platforms, including without limitation our website. The result of a system failure may be that your order is not executed, or your order may not be executed in accordance with your instructions. Further, to the extent you make any transaction request using our electronic platforms, we reserve the right to ask you to verify any such transaction requests and you agree that we shall have no liability for any delays caused by such verification. Your use of our electronic platforms constitutes your agreement to be bound by our Website User Agreement and Privacy Policy, which are available on our website.

We shall not be responsible to you for any loss or damages suffered by you as a result of the failure of systems hardware and software used by you to interface with our electronic platform to initiate or process Account transactions. This limitation applies whether such transactions are initiated or processed directly with our systems or through a third-party service provider.

3. Telephone and Electronic Communication

We may record and/or monitor any of our telephone conversations with you. If we do record, we do not have to keep the recordings unless the law says we must.

When you give us your mobile number, we have permission to contact you at that number about your Account. Your consent allows us to use text messaging, artificial or prerecorded voice messages and automatic dialing technology for informational and account service calls. Message and data rates apply. You may contact us at any time to change these preferences.

If you give us your email address, you consent to receiving communications electronically, including notices regarding your Account, rather than through U.S. Mail or other means, unless the law says otherwise.

4. Inactive and Unclaimed Accounts

Each state has laws that govern when accounts are considered inactive or abandoned, and when we are required to report and send a customer's unclaimed property to the state. If we send your unclaimed property to a state, you will have to contact that state to claim your property. To avoid having us report your property as unclaimed or abandoned, please keep your Account active by signing into your Account online, making transactions or otherwise keeping in contact with us. We will mail you a letter to the address we have on file for you to notify you before we report your property to the state as abandoned property.

5. Illegal Activity

We reserve the right to inquire about any deposits, withdrawals or other account activity. You agree not to use your Account for any illegal activity.

Any permitted assignment is subject to and superseded by our setoff rights and remains subject to any other rights we have under this Agreement and applicable state and federal law. If you want to assign ownership of your Account, we may require that you close the Account and open a new account in the name of the transferee or assignee.

We may assign all our rights and obligations under this agreement at any time without your consent and without prior notice to you.

5. No Waiver

Nothing in this Agreement shall constitute or be construed as a waiver of any of the privileges, rights, defenses, remedies, or immunities available to Texas Bullion Depository as an agency of the State of Texas or otherwise available to us. The failure to enforce or any delay in the enforcement of any privileges, rights, defenses, remedies, or immunities available to the Depository under this Agreement or under applicable law shall not constitute a waiver of such privileges, rights, defenses, remedies, or immunities or be considered as a basis for estoppel. We do not waive any privileges, rights, defenses, remedies, or immunities available to the Texas Bullion Depository as an agency of the State of Texas, or otherwise available to us, by entering into this Agreement or by its conduct prior to or subsequent to entering into this Agreement. The modification of any privileges, rights, defenses, remedies, or immunities available to the Texas Bullion Depository must be in writing, must reference this Section, and must be signed by us to be effective, and such modification of any privileges, rights, defenses, remedies, or immunities available to the Texas Bullion Depository shall not constitute waiver of any subsequent privileges, rights, defenses, remedies, or immunities under this Agreement or under applicable law.

6. Third-party Beneficiaries

Nothing in this agreement confers any rights or remedies to any person or entity other than the Parties.

7. Severability

The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this agreement shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision of this agreement.

8. Headings; No Presumption

The headings used in this agreement are for convenience only and do not affect the meaning of any provisions of this agreement. No presumption in favor of or against any Party in the construction or interpretation of this agreement, or any provision hereof, shall be made based upon which Party drafted this agreement or the provision.

9. Entire Agreement

This agreement, together with any additional disclosures we may provide to you, is our entire agreement and it supersedes all prior communications between you and us as it relates to your Account. Any representation, warranty, either express or implied, or agreement that is not included in this agreement has no force and effect.

10. Binding Agreement

This agreement is binding on the Parties and their respective heirs, successors, executors, administrators, representatives and assigns.
